APPENDIX

DAUGHTERS OF THE AMERICAN REVOLUTION

The following excerpt from Unpublished Records of Families of California Pioneers was found in the Sutro Library\(72\) in San Francisco, California. It was in a typescript book and contained a sketch written by Mrs. Walter Morley - Mabelle Abby Post [RN 616] - when she applied for membership in the Daughters of the American Revolution.(73)

The facts contained in these records should be looked at with some caution since much of the information related to my father - Gerald Hathaway Dow [RN 7] - and his immediate family is inaccurate. Nevertheless, if as stated in the last paragraph of page 2, some of the information came from family bible or other records, it may be the best source for some facts.

HENRY HATHAWAY LAWRENCE.
California Pioneer.

GENERATION I. HENRY HATHAWAY LAWRENCE.

- B. Oct. 3, 1825, Penn Yan, Yates Co., N.Y. Son of Silas Lawrence and his wife, Caroline Cornwell. For his ancestry see "History and Directory of Yates Co., New York" by Stafford C. Cleveland, published by the same. Chronicle Office, 1873, Penn Yan.
- M. April 30, 1853, Ludlowville, N.Y. Sarah Ann Mack. B. Sept. 17, 1828, Winsor, N.Y., daughter of Daniel Mack and his wife, Electa Jane Morehouse. For her ancestry see Mack line, elsewhere in this volume. She died Feb. 22, 1922. Berkeley, Cal. Buried in Mountain View Cemetery, Oakland, Cal.
- D. Feb. 4, 1901, East Oakland, Calif.

Henry Hathaway Lawrence was the son of Quaker stock, his grandfather being a noted pioneer of Western New York, possibly a descendant of Commodore John Lawrence of the American Revolution. His grandmother, Anna Hathaway, was related to Thomas Hathaway, pioneer Friend. Henry Hathaway Lawrence came to California in the spring of 1849 in a sailing vessel around Cape Horn. The ship was becalmed for days and many passengers died; but he survived, reached San Francisco Bay and joined the gold rush, but soon settled on rich farming land on the Napa River at the present site of Napa City. He did trading with natives and incoming population and opened a general store and was later appointed first county clerk of Napa. In 1853 he went east as delegate from district to Centennial Exposition at Phila. at which time he married and returned with his wife by way of Panama. On reaching Napa he found that floods had swept away his business. He returned to San Francisco and was employed in the U. S. Mint until two years before his death, a period of 40 years. He worked up from door-keeper to Chief Assayer. He was prominent in the organization of three churches, the Green St. Congregational Church, S. F.; 1st Congregational Church, Oakland, and Brooklyn Presbyterian Church, Oakland, and was an active member of the Society of Cal. Pioneers.

Children of Henry Hathaway Lawrence and his wife, Sarah Mack:
